

Consumer Finance

Signicat has been the preferred choice for identifying and digitalizing processes in the consumer finance industry for over a decade. Signicat has from the start been working closely with consumer finance firms. In 2006 the company was the first in the world to enable, for its customer Komplet, secure and convenient online consumer financing through the use of electronic identity methods. Since then Signicat's portfolio of products have expanded and now includes identity assurance, electronic signing, authentication and document preservation.

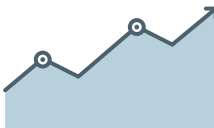

Digital customer on-boarding

One of the biggest challenges for regulated businesses today is to be able to on-board customers in a secure and convenient way that complies with regulations such as KYC and AML. We have helped our customers comply with regulations and we have the experience, tools and products to help businesses find the right solution.

Increasing the degree of self-service

Our existing customer base care a great deal about user experience. To them, a key success factor is to deliver digital services that is based on self-service. These services need to be secure, easy to use, fast and convenient for the end user. Signicat's products can help organizations digitize customer onboarding and electronic signing of documents such as loan applications – all resulting in satisfied customers.

Be flexible and scale your business

By using Signicat, organizations can integrate once and get access to our broad portfolio of identity methods that through Signicat easily can be used for identification, authentication and electronic signing. This gives the ability to integrate once and easily expand your offerings in both your existing and new markets.
